

A key player in Border's growth

IT is satisfying that Border-based transport and logistics company Border Express is the first local company to invest in Wodonga council's freight distribution hub Logic Park.

Border Express has been part of Albury-Wodonga's growth over the past 40 years.

The company has been a key player in developing Albury-Wodonga into a national transport hub — one of the factors that spawned the concept of Logic Park and ultimately its establishment.

The Luff family-owned company has been one of Albury-Wodonga's quiet achievers.

Its more recent history has been one of sustained national growth to the extent the company now employs more than 500 across Australia and operates 300 trailers.

The decision to invest in Logic Park is another example of a Border company expanding to maximise its opportunities — locally and nationally.

For Wodonga council, Border Express is another important piece of the economic jigsaw that will underpin our region for years to come.
